

HALICZ, KEY TO LEMBERG, FALLS AS RUSSIANS CRUMBLE GERMAN LINES IN RAPID ADVANCE

German Forces Have Retreated 10 Miles Beyond Town of Jezupol

GERMANY TO "FIGHT AND CONQUER" SAYS DR. VON BETHMANN-HOLLWEG

Report Says Foreign Minister Zimmerman and Vice Chancellor Helfferich Are To Resign; Political Situation in Berlin Continues Tense

(BULLETIN.)

London, July 10.—Halicz, he strategic key to Lemberg, capital of Galicia, has been captured by the Russians, says Reuter's Petrograd Correspondent.

Russia's armies have broken the Austro-German lines in the Halicz-Stanislau sector, one of the most important on the eastern front, and the Russian advance continues.

The Austro-German forces already have withdrawn beyond the Lomnica river, about ten miles west of Jezupol, which was occupied Sunday by the Russians under General Korniloff.

The Russians have taken four more villages and increased their captures of prisoners more than 1,000. Seven more field guns and other war material fell into Russian hands.

Russians Penetrate Tenth Lines.

West of Stanislau, toward Kaulitz and Dolina, the Russians have penetrated the Tenth line to a depth of nearly seven miles. Between Stanislau and Enklitz they have widened their wedge. In their retirement, apparently made hastily, from the large amount of guns and military stores captured by the Russians, the Austro-Germans failed to make a stand at two rivers, the Lukoviza and the Luvka. It is probable they may entrench on the west bank of the Lomnica.

Only One Avenue of Escape.

A stand west of the Lomnica, however, will hardly prevent the forced evacuation of Halicz, the strategic key

COMMERCIAL PEACE IS NEARER, SAYS SEC. BAIE, AS RESULT OF MEETING

Rome, June 19.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—A step towards international commercial peace through better individual relations was one of the results of a meeting of the International Parliament of Commerce, according to Eugene Baie, the general secretary. Said Mr. Baie: "All the nations now allied against the Central Empires were represented, save the United States, and I believe, in response to our invitation, the United States will be represented in our next conference at Paris in October, arranged especially for the new American members."

With the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, Russia, Japan, Belgium, Portugal, and others as members, these nations, allied in war, are strong enough to secure world-wide acceptance and enforcement of the idea of economic union.

The organization was founded at Brussels in 1914 just six weeks before the war for the purpose of securing a unification of the international laws of commerce, and the war has strengthened it. It should be understood that the organization does not propose to disturb existing custom laws or tariffs, but to unify and rearrange, in particular, the rates of railroads and of steamship companies for international commerce and to destroy arbitrary rates established to favor certain countries or classes of commerce. The Mittel Europa Wirtschaft Verein, the result of patient and concerted effort toward an economic ideal, has shown us the power of commercial organization."

While the International Parliament of Commerce limits its present activities to obtaining full recognition by governments and to the unification of railroad and sea freight rates, six committees reported at Rome on these particular commercial reforms deemed necessary:

First, laws relative to false labels on goods, misleading as to quality and to country of origin.

Second, the need of adopting in all countries of uniform specific tariffs instead of the ad valorem tariffs, as in the United States, which, it was claimed, leads to confusion and waste.

Fourth, the unification of weights, measures, and money standards by the use of the decimal system, thus simplifying international banking and commerce.

Since the war the International Parliament of Commerce has assumed the character of an organization into Lemberg, and the Russians are within less than eight miles of Halicz on three sides. Only one avenue of retreat toward Lemberg is left open, that between the Dniester and the Lipiza rivers. The evacuation of Halicz would make a retreat from the Brezany-Vlochoff-Brody line by the Austro-Germans almost a necessity.

Repulse Crown Prince's Forces.

Meanwhile the Russians artillery is hammering the enemy lines south of Brezany and north of the Pripiat marshes. The fighting activity has increased.

On the Western front, along the Chemin des Dams, the French have repulsed more attacks by the troops of the German Crown Prince. The latest German efforts were made in as great force as those of last week. The French also threw back a strong attack near Hurbette, in Champagne.

A vigorous artillery duel is in progress between the British and the Germans in Flanders. The German artillery fire also has been intense along the front held by the Belgian army. In Flanders, near the French border, the British have advanced their lines east of Ostaverne.

Zimmermann to Resign?

The Germans cannot declare their terms of peace and "must fight and conquer," Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the Imperial Chancellor, is reported to have told members of the Reichstag. Peace without annexation is not looked upon with favor by the German government, the Chancellor is reported to have said, adding, "I am sure we can win if we hold out."

The tension of the political situation in Berlin is still great. The Imperial Chancellor, he report says, will retain his post, but a German paper says he has promised the resignation of Foreign Minister Zimmermann and Vice Chancellor Helfferich. Changes in the Prussian cabinet are expected.

FRENCH GOVERNMENT AND DEPUTIES STAND TOGETHER ON WRONG SIDE OF VOTE

Paris, June 30.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—The rare spectacle of the government and the most important committee of the chamber of deputies being together on the wrong side of a vote in the chamber was afforded the other day in the adoption of an amendment to the law opening provisional credits for the third quarter of 1917.

The amendment provided for the increase of the appropriations of about 4,000,000 francs to permit payment of allowances to certain categories of wives of mobilized men that have heretofore been withheld for various reasons, the principal of which was that the women in question were not in need and the object of the war allowances was the relief of distress. The amendment was adopted by a vote of 404 to 69. Nine members of the cabinet and a large proportion of the 44 members of the committee of appropriations were among the 69.

Albert Thomas, minister of munitions, though absent was recorded as voting against. This apparent inconsistency arises from the old custom in the chamber of deputies permitting absent members to delegate their vote either to the groups to which they belong or to "colleagues." That custom also explains the great frequency of rectifications of votes. Absent members having been recorded by colleagues for or against propositions and finding, after reflection that they were on the wrong side, have this liberty of rectifying the vote.

Committee reports are frequently rejected, but rarely, if ever, has it been at the same time on the losing side.

WORLD CRISIS A TEST OF SCHOOL EFFICIENCY SAYS MRS. BRADFORD

Portland, Ore., July 10.—The world crisis, as it affects the United States, and the part this country is playing in it, is a test of the public school, according to Mrs. Mary C. C. Bradford, superintendent of public instruction of Colorado, as expressed in an address before the elementary section of the National Education Association here today.

Taking as her subject "The Public School and the Nation in 1917," Mrs. Bradford declared that if the United States carried into effect its avowed policy of "righteousness to all humanity" and "sacrifice for all nations" it will be "because the American public school has, in some degree at least, fulfilled the august task confided to it by the commands of democratic government."

"If, after this great war to end wars shall be over," she continued, "American functions as the supreme idealistic force in the reorganization of the world, it will be because the public schools have given to the nation a higher vision than the world before has seen."

This is the great task of the public school in 1917; this the mighty effort that must be made by the school people of today.

"Pointing out that non-Americans had declared the public school system of this country the 'supremely distinctive feature' of the American development, Mrs. Bradford declared:

"A new vision must come to the school world of America; a vision that reveals to it itself as the moulder of the soul-stuff of the nation in the likeness of the ideal humanity."

Comparing the public school to the Casket of the Holy Grail, she added, "Let us offer ourselves to the nation as one unit in the great army of those who stand ready to give all at the nation's summons; let fit ourselves for the high empire of keeping safe the immortal draught without which the national ideals must perish."

ST. JOHN SBURY CENTER.

It was children's night at Green Mt. Grange, No. 1, last Saturday evening. There was a good attendance at the meeting and at the open program that followed. The hall was filled with visitors and friends.

The hall and dining room were very prettily and tastefully decorated with flags, bunting, ferns and cut flowers. Four applications were received and eight were elected to membership.

The guest of honor, Worthy State Lecturer, O. L. Martin, of Plainfield, gave a very interesting talk along the lines of Grange work, congratulating Green Mt. Grange on the burning of its mortgage. He closed his remarks by giving us the benefit of his changed views on the war situation since his recent trip to the south where he delivered a number of lectures at the assembly camp in Virginia. They are selected and trained for the various branches of service in the war there.

He said that the officials at Washington did not feel so sure that the war would close in January as has been predicted but are fearful that it will be a longer drawn out struggle. That is why stocks, and the general preparedness movements along other lines throughout the country. Remarks were also made by District Deputy W. C. Hall.

At the next regular meeting, July 20, the first and second degrees are to be conferred.

At the close of the meeting the following refreshments of cake and ice cream were served:

Song, "We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall," by the girls; recitation, "The Ragged Little Boy," A. Brooks; recitation, "The Yankee Men," Warren Gray; recitation, "A Difference of Opinion," Evangeline Chaffer and Glenn Piper; recitation, "Finding Fault," Eleanor Goss; recitation, "Knowledge," Ralph Stokes; recitation, "A Gift," Thelma Chaffer; song, "Welcome, Pretty Daisies," Evangeline Chaffer, Laura Goss, Dorothy and Richard Simpson; recitation, "Boys' Rights," Leonard Goss; dialogue, "Spring Flowers," by eight girls; recitation, "He Didn't Think," Laura Goss; recitation, "The Patter of the Shingle," Charlie Brooks; the Patriots Drill, by thirteen girls.

Funeral Services Held.

The funeral services of Mrs. Louise G. Towle were held in the church at Passumpsic Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Interment was at Lyndon Center.

PROF. ANESAKI SAYS JAPS ADMIRE THE GERMAN PEOPLE

Tokio, June 29.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—Frankly discussing what he calls the Japanese sympathy with Germany, Prof. M. Anesaki, Japanese exchange professor at Harvard University in 1913-1915, declares in a magazine article that although technically Japan is at war with Germany, a feeling of admiration for Germany is quite general among the Japanese people. This, he declares, is a significant contrast with the situation in the United States where anti-German feeling is almost universal. How did German influence gain such an ascendancy in Japan, he asks. First of all through Germany's victory in 1870 which induced the Japanese military authorities to adopt German models in place of the French which had been followed previously, and, secondly, through the adaptation of German constitution and jurisprudence to the Japanese needs.

After German jurisprudence, came German philosophy and science whose influence Germanized the Japanese. In the nineties "going abroad" among students meant "going to Germany," Prof. Anesaki continued.

"Japanese pro-Germanism is also due to other reasons. The German desire or need to have a 'place in the sun' is shared by many Japanese leaders in politics and industry. According to these men, the claims of Germany as to expansion in various directions are legitimate or urgently necessary. Some Japanese are unfortunately inclined to look askance at the pleas of the Entente Powers regarding German atrocities and fail to be impressed by them because 'Germany has done pretty much the same as some other powers did once towards us,' they say."

The professor remarked that too ignorant of the real situation, even geographically, the average Japanese has a great, if vague, admiration of Germany's tenacity in the war, and this is a strong point in his pro-German sentiment. Of course the brilliant defense of Verdun by the French, the growing strength of the British army, and the signs of German desperation have worked a change in current opinions. Even the military men, the avowed pro-Germans, are beginning to recognize some points of opinion adverse to theirs, but it should be remembered that their pro-German expressions were and are not for the sake of their own prestige in Japan. Having identified their own interests and principles with those of the German militarists, they have imprinted on the public with the strength and necessity of that militarism and will not abandon their own plea for the necessity of militarism in Japan. Prof. Anesaki concluded:

"There lies the danger for Japan in politics, education and social life. Pro-Germanism is a disease in Japan and the only remedy lies in convincing the Japanese people of the futility of the German methods. The only way to do this is for the Allies to be finally successful not only in military and naval engagements but in social, moral, educational reconstruction to be achieved brilliantly after the war."

NEWPORT CHILDREN'S NIGHT AT 'MAGOG GRANGE'

The regular meeting of the Memphremagog Grange will be held at eight o'clock this evening in the lodge room in I. O. O. F. Block on Central street. This will be children's night and the little people will appear in various roles in the following interesting program which has been prepared for the occasion by the lecturer Mrs. L. A. Hazen.

Song "Star Bangled Banner"; recitation "Daisy Time," Gladys Hancock; piano solo, Bertha True; dialogue "The Patriotic Hoe" six girls; recitation, Marion Lorimer; address by the County Agricultural agent Harold F. Johnson; Song, Edna Lawson; recitation, "My Little Man" George Berry; piano solo, Doris Lorimer; recitation, Barbara Lawson; drill, by the young army; closing by entire audience singing "America."

The grange and the kindred organizations, the Orleans County Agricultural Society, the Farmers Co-Operative Exchange, with head quarters in this city are doing a grand work for the progressive farmer, educating him along the lines of intensive rather than extensive farming, solving many of the knotty problems which are bound to arise, giving expert advice in the various phases of the work, thus enabling him to gain a larger profit from his labor and the money invested.

UNITED STATES DIST. COURT PROCEEDINGS

An adjourned session of the May term of United States District Court opened in the Federal building in this city at 9 o'clock yesterday morning with Hon. Harland B. Howe of St. Johnsbury the presiding judge.

The first case to be called for trial was the U. S. vs. Henry Diamond. This is a case in which the defendant is charged with smuggling heroin into the United States from Canada. A jury was impaneled and the case is now being tried.

The next case will be Leonard Cragg vs. the Grand Trunk Railroad Co. The case is a suit for damages against the railroad. This is the first session of the United States District Court in this city since the May term of 1905.

Demonstration of Red Cross Training.

The Baptist Church vestry in West Derby was filled by an interested and enthusiastic audience last Friday afternoon to witness the demonstration of the members of the Red Cross nurse training class for older ladies which has been under instruction of Mrs. Walter Hinman, a registered nurse, for the past month.

A few weeks ago a few of the ladies of West Derby, feeling that they would like to do their bit, organized what is known as the Red Cross nurse training class for older ladies, holding meetings for class instruction each Monday and Friday afternoon in the Baptist Church vestry, which has been donated by the society. Mrs. Walter Hinman, a registered nurse of many years' practical experience, has had the personal direction of the class, and at the demonstration her thorough and conscientious work was manifested, as well as the evidence of the hard and painstaking work of each pupil, who performed the part assigned in a faultless manner. The class has had instruction in emergency nursing both for the home and in the community.

The existing conditions of the country today are educating the people to a higher degree of usefulness. They are becoming awakened to the fact that upon each individual rests a certain responsibility that must be borne, and it is these conditions that has given birth to the countless organizations which today are doing so much to relieve the suffering caused by the great struggle now in progress. The person who does his or her part in helping along these lines is showing the same amount of patriotism in proportion to the work done as the man in the trenches. All honor to the Red Cross or any other organization which will bring the people to a sense of their duty.

Open Tea and Rest Room.

The ladies of the Newport Chapter of the Red Cross Society will open a tea and rest room for the season in the Brady Cottage on Field Avenue near the Memphremagog Yacht Club house, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon tomorrow.

This is only another patriotic move on the part of the ladies of the Red Cross Society in this city. An earnest invitation is given everybody to come and help along the work, which so helps the soldier boys.

Germans Won't Cross Ocean.

Berne, Switzerland, July 5.—"We don't intend to use an army across the Atlantic and fight the Americans at home," says the Weserzeitung of Bremen, Germany. "They will be able to say they are unbeaten, but an unbeaten America doesn't make up for a beaten entente."

Men Had Horns Then.

The archeologists who traversed the Susquehanna river valley, visiting sites of Indian villages and digging up aborigines and other relics, are said to have made a most astounding discovery on the Murray farm, near Athens, Pa., in finding the bones of 68 prehistoric men. The average height of these men when their skeletons were assembled, was seven feet, while many were much taller. Additional evidence of their gigantic size is found in the massive stone battle axes in their graves. Another amazing point of this discovery is the allegation that "perfectly formed skulls were found from which horns grew straight out from the head."

Two Famous Men.

Here is a pen portrait of the famous novelist Thackeray, written in 1845 by Edward Fitzgerald who, as the English adapter of Omar Khayyam, was to become equally famous in time: "In the mean while old Thackeray laughs at all this; and goes on in his own way, writing hard for half a dozen reviews and newspapers all the morning; dining, drinking, and talking of a night; managing to preserve a fresh color and perpetual flow of spirits under a wear-and-tear of thinking and feeding that would have knocked up any other man, I know, two years ago at least."

MILK TOAST.

Don't throw away stale bread and left-over skim milk, Madam. Housewife. From them you can make that simple and well-known but nourishing dish, milk toast, the United States Department of Agriculture points out. This makes a good dish for breakfast, luncheon, or supper, especially for children. Heat the milk. Add a small quantity of butter and season to taste with salt. Pour while hot over well-toasted stale bread and serve.
